MORE CREATIVE SPACES FOR VICTORIA'S SUBURBS AND REGIONS

More artists, creative organisations and communities across Victoria will benefit from new spaces to create and showcase their work, with boosted investment to upgrade and repurpose local facilities for creative use, made possible by the Allan Labor Government.

Minister for Creative Industries Colin Brooks today announced an investment of more than $500,000 through the latest round of the Creative Neighbourhood Infrastructure Support Program (LGA Category), creating more opportunities for every Victorian to celebrate their creativity.

The grant program supports local councils to provide artists and creative practitioners with fit-for-purpose, accessible and secure facilities where they can develop their work and careers, and opens up creative spaces for local communities across the state.

With opportunities for every community across metro, suburban and regional Victoria, these grants ensure more creatives have the opportunity to showcase their work and celebrate their artist flare alongside other local creative practitioners.

City of Casey will adapt its under-utilised Narre Warren Mechanics Institute Hall to create the Emerging Artists Creative Hub, with dedicated spaces for collaboration, exhibitions and performances while Colac Otway Shire Council will replace outdated audio visual equipment in the Colac Otway Performing Arts and Cultural Centre to better support and enhance local theatre productions.

Latrobe City Council will complete a dedicated creative industries training space at Traralgon's Gippsland Performing Arts Centre, while Melton City Council will improve the climate control and environmental monitoring at CS Gallery to create a more functional exhibition space for artists.

Wodonga's Hothouse Theatre will be upgraded to include a multi-use space that enables performance, workshops, exhibitions, conferences and collaborative workspaces.

The Creative Neighbourhood Infrastructure Support Program is part of the Labor Government's $6 million Creative Spaces and Places program, and is supported by the Community Support Fund.
